Siro was born in Chile in 1974, where he studied fine arts. He currently lives in Spain, where he has developed his career as a visual artist and filmmaker. His work has been featured in various international art and video creation fairs, and he has participated in both collective and solo exhibitions.

Siro's work is a visual exploration of life's mystery through the organic. It's a constant dialogue between drawing—an intimate, daily trace—painting, and audiovisual media. Through series that address themes like the genesis of life, Siro constructs an abstract universe where the line defines form and form becomes textures that breathe.

His work reflects his curiosity about the transcendence and fragility of living things. With each stroke, each brushstroke, and each material—often chosen for its ability to evoke the biological—he seeks to capture the essence of what constitutes and transcends us. By using materials that evoke organic sensations and textures, Siro aims to materialize these ideas in compositions full of movement, in a dialogue between forms and empty space, to be experienced not only from a rational perspective but also from an intuitive one, generating a curiosity in the viewer that connects them with the mystery and beauty of the unknown.
